A Message from our Headteacher

This week we have celebrated National Poetry Day. The theme for this year was counting. The children enjoyed creating and performing poetry in our assembly. They also had the chance to read, perform and write their own poetry in class. We have some fantastic poets across school. Below are two poems that were shared with me for Headteacher's award this week...

I count...

Sometimes my voice is as loud as a firework,

Other times it is as quiet as a mouse.

My voice is important because it's part of me,

I use it to be kind.

Nevaeh (year 2)

Everyone matters:

My voice counts because I am loved.

My voice counts even though I'm tall.

My voice counts because I am unique.

My voice counts even though I make mistakes.

By Flynn (year 4)
